You must have been aware by this time about the reaction of the people of all walks of life in West Bengal and outside about the denigration of our national leader, Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose by the Granada Television, part of the Independent Television Network in Britain in their 50-minute documentary on Netaji, entitled "War of the Springing Tiger". It is reported by those who have seen the preview of the film in London that Netaji has been labelled in it as "a clown in Jackboots", and he has been projected as a traitor to the country. Insulting remarks have also been made about the roles of Gandhiji and Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru in the struggle for freedom of the country.

There is a very strong feeling among the people of West Bengal against this film. We, from the Government of West Bengal, would also like to record our protest against it. The Conference of Political Parties and Chief Ministers recently held in Calcutta also expressed its resentment and condemnation against the reprehensible action of the Granada Television Company. A copy of the resolution is enclosed herewith.

It is unfortunate that a section of the Indians, including Dr. Sisir Bose, who is now an MLA in West Bengal, had extended their help in producing this film, may be, without knowing the real intention of the producers. They should have been forewarned about the anti-Indian bias of the producers, when they had requisitioned the service of Shri Nirod C. Chaudhuri.

I have noted with appreciation that immediately after coming to know about the actual nature of the film, the High Commissioner of India in London had lodged a protest against it. The Minister for External Affairs, Shri Narasimha Rao has also announced that the film, in the present form, will not be allowed to be shown in India. But, I think, these are not enough. It is reported that the Granada Television have ignored all these protests and the show of the film has started in London.

I would request you to take up this matter with the U.K. Government immediately and urge upon them to take suitable action to prevent the screening of the film in any part of the world including Britain as was done in the case of the film "Death of a Princess".

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

Resolution Condemning Action of Granada Television Company

This Calcutta Conference of the Political Parties and Chief Ministers expresses its resentment and condemnation against the reprehensible action of the Granada Television Company of U.K. in producing a film on Netaji, in which Netaji and the national leaders of our country have been projected in distorted manner.

This Conference, demands of the Government of India to take suitable actions to prevent the screening of the film in India and outside.

Dear Shri Jyoti Basu,

I have your letter of January 21 regarding Granada Television's film on Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose. Any disrespect to Netaji will naturally be resented by people not only of Bengal but the whole of India. I am told that this particular film adopts a condescending attitude to our entire Independence movement.

As you have observed, we did all we could to forestall the showing of this film on British Television. Unfortunately our attempts did not succeed.

In view of the feelings within the country, this matter is being taken up with the British Government. I hope the British Government will cooperate with us in avoiding needless affront to our public opinion and will see to it that the film is not put on the air again. But even if the Government is willing, I am told that the BBC does not always oblige.

Yours sincerely,

(Indira Gandhi)

Dear Sharada,

I enclose a copy of a recent report which appeared in the Calcutta Telegraph of 23rd February. The report quotes a letter the Prime Minister has written to the West Bengal Chief Minister saying that even if the British government is willing to cooperate with the Indian Government in banning the film on Netaji the BBC does not always oblige. I am sure that this must be a misquotation of the Prime Minister's letter. The BBC never made a film on Netaji. It was made by an independent Television Company. The BBC of course is also not responsible for the programme made about the assassination of the Indian diplomat which has caused a controversy.

With kind regards,

Yours

PM; Ban on Netaji film difficult

By A Staff Reporter

TELEGRAPH
23-2-84

Calcutta, Feb. 22: The Prime Minister, Mrs Indira Gandhi, has said that even if the British government is willing to cooperate with the Indian government in banning the film on Netaji, "the BBC does not always oblige." She said this in a letter to the West Bengal chief minister, Mr Jyoti Basu, who had earlier written, asking her to request the British government to stop the screening of the BBC film on Netaji, War of the Springing Tiger.

Mrs Gandhi has replied that "Any disrespect to Netaji will naturally be resented by people not only of Bengal, but the whole of India. I am told that this particular film adopts a condescending attitude to our entire independence movement."

The letter further said, "We did all we could to forestall the showing of this film on British television. Unfortunately, our attempts did not succeed." She said that the matter will be taken up with the British government and hoped that it would cooperate.

Minister of External Affairs

New Delhi
June 21, 1984

Dear Shri Joychandra Singh,

Please refer to your letter of 23rd May 1984, addressed to the Prime Minister, suggesting that the remains of Netaji Subhash Chandra Bose should be brought to India from the Renkoji Temple in Tokyo where they are at present.

As your letter itself suggests, you are aware of the controversy surrounding this question, including the serious reservations expressed by some members of Netaji's family. This controversy has figured in our media from time to time and also in the Parliament.

I need hardly state that we all hold Netaji in very high esteem. But, at the same time we would be reluctant to do anything which might only add to the controversy surrounding Netaji's remains. Your letter gives the impression of possible rethinking on the part of some members of the Netaji family on this question. It would be better if those members of the Netaji family who have been opposed to this idea in the past were to formally communicate their views to us, particularly if they think differently now.

I fully agree with you that there should be a national consensus on this question before the Government takes a formal decision so that a controversy in any form is avoided at a later stage. Any efforts on your part towards this end would be most welcome.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,
